Psychology service delivery at the Royal Melbourne Hospital Eating Disorder Unit

Megan Dobbie

From 2013 ANZAED Conference: Inspiring Change: Person and Context
Melbourne, Australia. 23-24 August 2013

This poster will outline the psychology services available to inpatients and outpatients who present for treatment at the Royal Melbourne Hospital Eating Disorder Unit. A brief outline of the inpatient, outpatient, and daypatient psychological services will be provided with clear rationales for the basis for offering the service delivery approaches. In addition, the role psychology on the unit as a function of a multidisciplinary team and therapeutic milieu will be outlined. Future directions for psychology and the role the psychologists working on the unit play in research projects and areas of research interest will also be outlined in this poster.
